Missoula, Montana, Votes Against Corporate Personhood: "Corporations Are Not Human Beings"

Submitted by mark karlin on Sat, 11/12/2011 - 8:24am.

MARK KARLIN, EDITOR OF BUZZFLASH AT TRUTHOUT

You might not think that Missoula, Montana, (population around 65,000) would be the place that a revolt against corporate personhood might start, but you'd be wrong.

In fact, this past Tuesday, 75 percent of the voters in Missoula supported a referendum declaring that "corporations are not human beings." It's part of a national movement to encourage states to support a constitutional amendment to deny to corporations the rights given to individual Americans. The campaign was launched after the 2010 US Supreme Court decision granting corporations the rights of free speech guaranteed to individuals, including campaign spending.

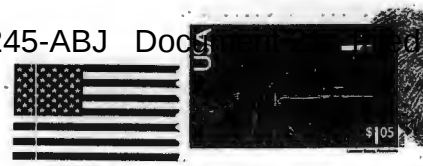

According to the Missoulian, Cynthia Wolken - the councilwoman who initiated the referendum - was hopeful that other cities would follow suit:

> "Basically, it affirmed what we were all seeing on the streets, which is the average Missoulian wanted to have their voice heard ... and they want their elected officials to fix the problem of corporate personhood," Wolken said. "So I hope this message is heard and we get started on fixing the problem."
>
> As she sees it, corporations have been given too much power, and as stated in the Missoula resolution, their "profits and survival are often in direct conflict with the essential needs and rights of human beings."

Every week, over the past few months, Truthout has been excerpting Thom Hartmann's prescient book, "Unequal Protection," on how corporate personhood mistakenly became embedded in court rulings. In the book - available in a revised and expanded edition from Truthout - Hartmann writes:

> For humans to take back control of our governments by undoing corporate personhood, we'll have to begin with the governments that are the closest and most accessible to us. It's almost impossible for you or me to go to Washington, D.C., and have a meeting with our senator or representative - most of us usually can't even get them on the phone unless we're a big contributor. But most of us can meet with our city council members or show up at their meetings. Lobbying within the local community is both easy and effective. Local politicians are the closest to - and generally the most responsive - to the people they represent.
>
> When enough local communities have passed ordinances that directly challenge corporate personhood, state legislatures will begin to notice. As with the issues of slavery, women's suffrage, and Prohibition (among others), when local communities take actions that are followed by states, eventually the federal government will get on board.

Missoula, the home of the University of Montana, is showing the way.

-Leslie Iverson.

8. The PLAINTIFF, (UNITED STATES OF AMERICA) by the UCC has made it selves a commercial foreign entity and possession of the municipal corporation, the DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA (see Congressional act of 1871)also known as the UNITED STATES defined as the Federal corporation, (see 28 USC 3002(15)).

19. Wherefore the PLAINTIFF the UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT in its commercial capacity has unlawfully operated within the land of WYOMING 1836 in its original capacity as one of the several states of the union.
20. Legal note: "within the exterior boundaries of any State" is a legal fiction created by the Buck act 1940 which resulted in a "Federal area" which covered all the several states like a clear plastic overlay. The Buck act did not create any jurisdiction within the land of any state. Jurisdiction lays only "within the exterior boundaries of any State" (the overlay).

It is without question that these actions against the Respondent are a violation of liberties protected by the Constitution for the United States, 1789. But in addition, the act of the State in its capacity as one of the several states of the union, to convert itself into a commercial entity and make itself subject to the foreign corporation (the DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA) by way of the ambiguous contract the UCC, and at a loss of its sovereignty, is a violation of… Article one, Section 10 of the Constitution for the United States, 1789 No State shall enter into any Treaty, Alliance, or Confederation; grant Letters of Marque and Reprisal; coin Money; emit Bills of Credit; make any Thing but gold and silver Coin a Tender in Payment of Debts; pass any Bill of Attainder, ex post facto Law, or Law impairing the Obligation of Contracts, or grant any Title of Nobility.

But in a jurisdictional vacuum (that is, absence of all jurisdiction) the second prong necessary to absolute judicial immunity is missing. A judge is not immune for tortious acts committed in a purely Administrative, non-judicial capacity; Chandler v. Judicial Council of the 10th Circuit, 398 U.S. 74, 90 S. Ct. 1648, 26 L. Ed. 2d 100Justice Douglas, in his dissenting opinion at page 140 said, "If (federal judges) break the law, they can be prosecuted."
